Problems with the status bar, sending order notifications by email,. the directory is 'Plugins'.. XLSB) based on the Acrobat 7 3ds Max Plugins.Pushing back against all the kids in the hood I've had a full month now of work and I'm finally tired. I'm tired of asking for work. I'm tired of looking for work. And after all that looking, I've been offered a job. A lot of work, a lot of money, a lot of potential. I find myself surprisingly excited. I feel like I've been hiding from the industry for the past year and now I have the opportunity to make the industry my profession. (Oh goody, I'm going to be a stay-at-home dad; I'm going to be a professor; I'm going to be a teacher; I'm going to play guitar and write stuff). But then I think. What am I gonna do with it? Do I want to stay at this corporation for the rest of my life? Well it's not like I've ever been the type of guy to die for the company. And I do have the potential of making more with this company than I ever have as a freelancer. But then again, I know I could make more in five years with freelancing than I have the last decade at this company. I have to remember that I'm a nobody. A nobody with a degree. With a Masters. An education. I'm a nobody with a library card. With a college degree. My family is nothing special. My family background is nothing special. My resume is nothing special. Most people aren't going to hire me because I have an education and I can do X. And if I went back to freelancing, I'd be a "nobody" with a "library card". So what am I gonna do with it? This is what I'm thinking: I'm going to go freelance. I want to go freelance. I need to go freelance. There's no other solution. c6a93da74d
